SPECIAL BONUS:

Thursday afternoon I had the opportunity to spend about 90 minutes speaking to a large group of attendees via webinar sponsored by the International Stock Exchange (ISE) on a subject I feel is a great place for all currency traders to begin.

“Using Intermarket Analysis to Find High Probability Currency Trades.”

For those of you that are already currency traders or for those of you that don't know where to get started I believe this will be very helpful.

Near the end you'll hear my co-host Steve Meizinger, the Director of Education for The International Securities Exchange (ISE) spend about 10 minutes walking you through a few currency options trade examples. Steve does a great job of explaining how currency options work and why you may want to consider trading ISE currency options.

During the Q & A section you'll hear Steve and I talking about a 20 page “Euro Report”. Many of our subscribers to Currency Currents already have this report but for any of you that don't, I've include the link to download it below.

Preparing for a Breakup in the European Monetary System

Thank you for your subscription to Currency Currents and I hope you enjoy both the webinar and this special report.
